

The Arab Families Working Group (AFWG) is a collective of sixteen scholars committed to advancing the state of empirical and theoretical knowledge on Arab families and youth. As part of this commitment to transnational, interdisciplinary, and collaborative information dissemination, networking, and knowledge-building, AFWG also maintains a database of scholars working in fields related to Arab families and youth. The AFWG Scholars' Database:

- Connects over 100 scholars and researchers around the world, from all disciplines and research areas related to Arab families and youth.
- Allows users to search by name, institutional affiliation, countries of specialization, or research topic.
- Is completely free and open to the public.

If you would like to participate in the AFWG Scholars' Database, please fill out the Scholars' Database Registration Form, which can be found at: <http://www.arabfamilies.org/content/afwg-scholars-database-registration>
