Sample Author Letter of Invitation

INVITATION TO CONTRIBUTE AN ARTICLE FOR:

Encyclopedia of Women and Islamic Cultures Online Edition

TO:
Headword Title:

We ask you to pay special attention to:

The Routing Editor for your entry is:

The word length for your entry or maximum word count (Max WC) is:
Due date for your entry is:

To:

From: Suad Joseph, General Editor, Encyclopedia of Women and Islamic Cultures

        Thank you for accepting the invitation to contribute the above entry to the Encyclopedia of Women and Islamic Cultures (EWIC), Online Edition. The Encyclopedia of Women and Islamic Cultures is an innovative, interdisciplinary, comparative, global project. Our goal is not only to capture this exciting moment in the field of women's studies, but to break new ground in naming, framing, and analyzing the issues and to help set the agenda for future research.
        The print edition of EWIC, published by Koninklijke Brill N.V., was completed in early 2008. Print EWIC offered six volumes, 2,000,000 words, 1,246 articles covering all facets of life for which we could find research on women and Islamic cultures all over the world, written by 907 scholars from all disciplines. EWIC Online continues the work we began in the print volumes; new articles will be published in supplements twice a year, beginning in 2010, under the academic leadership of General Editor Suad Joseph and Associate Editors Hoda Elsadda, Virginia Hooker, Therese Saliba, and Elora Shehabuddin. The Associate Editors of the print edition of EWIC now serve as EWIC Online's Advisory Board of Editors (Afsaneh Najmabadi, Julie Peteet, Seteney Shami, Jacqueline Siapno, Jane Smith and Assistant Editor Alice Horner). EWIC Online will forge into new areas of research and dissemination.
        Please carefully read the enclosed information on formatting, editing, and processing guidelines. Please make sure to title your article using the exact Headword Title provided above. Also, we ask that you include a maximum of 20 subject words for the index and an abstract (micropedia) of your article. Each contributor has been assigned a Routing Editor (see above) who will be the first to read your entry. Please feel free to contact the Routing Editor if you have questions while you are writing your entry. We invite you to read sample articles in the EWIC Preview, available as a PDF on the EWIC website (http://sjoseph.ucdavis.edu/ewic/). Brill will offer EWIC Online authors a 35% discount on one Brill publication and a PDF of your article.
        We ask you to fill out the Scholars Template and give us permission to publish it in the EWIC Scholars Database (http://sjoseph.ucdavis.edu/ewic). The database is a searchable network of experts on women and Islamic cultures designed to assist students, scholars, NGO's, foundations and agencies in connecting with researchers in this dynamic field.
         We are delighted you have joined us in the EWIC project to help us pioneer in this cutting edge field of research.

Sincerely,
Suad Joseph, General Editor, EWIC
Anthropology, University of California
One Shields Ave., Davis, CA 95616, U.S.A.